

VASOMODULATION DURING GLAUCOMA SURGERY

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method of minimizing blood reflux from an episcleral vein during an ab interno eye surgery includes advancing an applicator from an anterior chamber through trabecular meshwork toward Schlemm's canal, and administering a vasoconstrictive agent to about Schlemm's canal for minimizing the blood reflux. The vasoconstrictive agent may be an alpha-adrenergic agonist.

H:\DOCS\JZH\JZH-5079.DOC://rc1
012104